312 Acres Grazing Land for Sale, Goshen County Wyoming Chugwater, WY / Goshen County

PROPERTY DESCRIPTION

312.73± Acres of Prime Wyoming Grass Ranch | Chugwater to LaGrange, Goshen County

Wide-open Wyoming at its finest. This 312.73-acre grass ranch sits just off Highway 313 between Chugwater and LaGrange, right where Platte County rolls over into Goshen County in southeastern Wyoming. It is a rare blend of productive grassland, dramatic scenery, and outstanding wildlife, all in one unbroken parcel ready for its next owner.

The Grass and the Land

The heart of this property is its grass. Healthy native rangeland stretches across the acreage, offering excellent forage and strong grazing for a working cattle operation or a family looking to run a few head of their own. This is the kind of clean, honest ground that Wyoming ranchers prize, and it is increasingly hard to find in a single contiguous block of this size.

Canyons and Scenery

What sets this ranch apart is the terrain. Rugged, picturesque canyons line the southeast corner of the property, while a second, gentler canyon winds along the north side. Together they add privacy, shelter, and postcard views, and they create the kind of varied landscape that both wildlife and landowners love. Whether you are building a home site tucked against a canyon rim or simply enjoying the sunrise over the breaks, the scenery here delivers.

Exceptional Wildlife and Hunting

Wildlife thrives on this ground. Antelope are abundant across the open grass, and the canyons and draws hold strong numbers of mule deer. Elk have even been spotted watering right on the property, a testament to just how much game moves through this part of Goshen County. For the hunter, the recreational buyer, or the family that simply loves watching the herds cross the horizon, this is a true Wyoming wildlife property.

Life in Chugwater Country

This ranch carries all the appeal of Wyoming's wide-open spaces with the warmth of a real Western community close at hand. Historic Chugwater is known for its Western heritage and small-town charm, home to the Chugwater Soda Fountain (Wyoming's oldest operating soda fountain), the beloved annual Chugwater Chili Festival, and a local ranch mercantile that still serves the area the old-fashioned way. Families will appreciate Prairie View School, a small K-12 school in the Platte County School District with strong community ties. It is the kind of place where rural independence and neighborly roots still go hand in hand.

No Covenants, No HOA

Here is the freedom rural buyers dream about: this ranch has no covenants and no homeowners association. No committees, no restrictions on how you build, graze, or use your land. Bring your own vision and put it to work on your own terms, the way Wyoming land ownership is meant to be.

Location and Access

Positioned along Highway 313 between the ranching communities of Chugwater and LaGrange, this parcel offers easy access while still feeling a world away. It sits within comfortable reach of Cheyenne, Wheatland, and Torrington, and the greater Front Range beyond, giving you the peace of rural Wyoming without sacrificing connection to town, services, and markets. And with Wyoming's landowner-friendly climate and no state income tax, the long-term value here goes well beyond the fence lines.

Endless Opportunity

This is a property with two clear paths. For a family, it is an ideal homestead site: room to build, room to run livestock, and room to roam, all surrounded by grass, game, and canyon country. For a corporate or investment buyer, the size, location, and highway frontage make it a strong candidate for larger-scale development or a long-term land holding in a growing region. An older homestead on the property needs some teardown and cleanup, but that simply clears the way for your own vision.

Offered As-Is

The property is being sold in as-is, where-is condition, including all existing structures and improvements. Bring your plans, bring your herd, and bring your imagination. Opportunities like this in southeastern Wyoming do not last.
